

COOPERATIVE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM AT WORK IN THE PHILIPPINES

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The USAID Cooperative Development Program (CDP) implemented by ACDI/VOCA (2021-2026) supports the cooperative movement in the Philippines, by providing technical assistance and capacity building to help professionally managed, farmer-owned and -operated organizations improve their governance, management, and productivity. These partnering co-ops are engaged in various high-value agricultural enterprises, ranging from coffee, cacao, coconut, and rice to aquaculture and dairy production.

By adopting ACDI/VOCA's Inclusive Market Systems approach to building capacity and sustainable relationships between producers, service providers, and buyers, we are creating long-term market relationships and incentives that will sustain cooperatives and their members into the future.

CONNECTING OPPORTUNITIES FOR GROWTH & RESILIENCE

41 agricultural cooperatives in Mindanao and Luzon have strengthened in capacity, sustainability, economic impact, services, and reach.

301.7 thousand members directly benefited from this program through improved inclusive cooperative governance, management, market performance, and access to services and resources.

10 Philippine agri-based cooperatives have been established as Rural Development Hubs.
